SkillfullyAware Awareness Quotient (SAAQ)

Subject: Anonymous2

Report Date: September 02, 2025

What this is

SAAQ is a whole-person snapshot of how you relate to yourself, others, and the world—right now. It is practical, strengths-forward, and action-oriented. You'll see clear language about patterns, levers for growth, and a 90-day plan to turn insight into skill.

This report integrates narrative data to produce a developmental snapshot that is practical, compassionate, and actionable. It synthesizes three lenses: a ten-stage developmental continuum (S1–S10), eight Power Centers of lived capability, and six Core Aptitudes. All insights are individualized to John's narrative responses and oriented toward near-term practice and long-term growth.

The Developmental Stage Model (S1–S10)

SAAQ uses a simplified ten-stage continuum (S1–S10) to describe how adults make sense of self, others, and systems. Stages are not labels but lenses; people can access multiple stages depending on context and stress. We estimate a current center-of-gravity and note common fallback patterns under load.

Our stage model is an original synthesis of respected developmental traditions: Piaget's cognitive stages; Loevinger/Cook-Greuter's ego development; Kegan's subject-object theory; Graves/Spiral Dynamics (Beck & Cowan); Wilber's Integral framework; and O'Fallon/Barta's STAGES. We translate common insights across these maps into a single, plain-English progression labeled S1 → S10. In short: as perspective widens, identity becomes less defensive, more self-authored, more systemic, and—at later stages—more spacious and compassionate. SAAQ estimates your current "center of gravity" and the next workable edge.

Other lenses we use

- Hemispheric Perspective (inspired by Iain McGilchrist): left (analytic/sequencing) ↔️ right (relational/holistic) balance.
- Power Centers: Vital, Emotional, Relational, Social/Leadership, Financial, Creative, Intellectual, Spiritual.
- Core Aptitudes: Autonomy/Influence, Drive, Perseverance, Achievement, Alignment, Restraint.
- Trait Tendencies (qualitative): We infer personality tendencies from narrative (aligned with research such as HEXACO) to deepen the picture, while avoiding use of any copyrighted instruments.

How to use this report

- Start with the Stage Estimate and Awareness Summary for the big picture.
- Study Power Centers and Shadow Indicators to locate energy leaks and why they happen.
- Use the 90-Day Practice Plan and If-Then Protocols to build repeatable habits.
- Share the v2 Targeted Lenses with your therapist/coach to focus sessions quickly.

1. Developmental Stage Estimate: S6 (Results Driver) → S7 (Perspective Connecter, emerging)

Evidence of S6 (Results Driver):

- Strong ownership and bias for action; frames setbacks as learning.
- Focused on capital, revenue, and execution; outcome-first orientation.
- Results focus, but sacrifices health, presence, and consistency under stress.

Evidence of S7 (Perspective Connecter) emerging:

- Therapy insights: recognizes childlike reactivity and works to pause.
- Values empathy and fairness; seeks to understand when others disappoint.
- Beginning to set boundaries and renegotiate relationships more openly.

Fallbacks under stress:

- Control reflex (rumination, over-managing). Quick relief loops (food, audiobooks, withdrawal).
- Sleep disruption, irritability, withdrawal from family.

Verdict: Anonymous's current center-of-gravity is S6 with authentic S7 capacities under construction.

2. Hemispheric Bias: Left-tilted integrator

Anonymous shows a left-hemisphere tilt under stress: rumination, control, perfectionism. Right-hemisphere resets through play with kids, creative sketching, humor, and relational presence restore balance. Performance improves when he grounds in the body and loosens control.

3. Power Center Analysis

Power Center	Assessment	Notes
Vital (Physical/Sexual)	Strained → Stabilizing	Poor sleep, stress-eating, withdrawal; building healthier anchors.
Emotional	Volatile → Maturing	Lash out/withdraw; therapy helps regulate responses.
Relational	Mixed → Strengthening	Often misunderstood; needs clearer communication and presence.
Social/Leadership	Strong	Direct leader; inconsistency under stress; learning to delegate.
Financial	Strong / Anxious	Money = freedom; family collapse origin story fuels vigilance.
Creative	Active (informal)	Sketching and humor with kids; potential for structured creative outlet.
Intellectual	Strong	Therapy insights; reflective, but needs integration routines.
Spiritual	Ambivalent → Opening	Wants belief but uncertain; gratitude and awe practices viable.

Power Center KPIs (90-Day Targets)

Gentle, measurable rhythms to stabilize gains without over-controlling. Targets are designed to fit a founder schedule.

Power Center	Simple KPI	Baseline	90-Day Target
Vital	Protected morning block	Often skipped	4 mornings/week
Emotional	Pause + breath	Ad hoc	10 reps/week
Relational	Repair/deepen	Reactive withdrawal	1 appreciation/repair/week
Social/Leadership	Delegate outcomes	Inconsistent	2 tasks/week delegated
Financial	Values-aligned plan	Anxious vigilance	12-month plan + weekly review
Creative	Design/express block	Informal play	1 × 90-min session/week
Intellectual	Integration journaling	Occasional	Journal 2×/week
Spiritual	Service/awe	Ambivalent	1 act of service/week + nature 2×/month

4. Core Aptitudes

Aptitude	Assessment	Evidence
Autonomy/Influence	Strong (directive → dialogic)	Direct leader; learning co-ownership vs rescuing.
Drive	Very high	Pushes hard despite stress; strong bias for action.
Perseverance	High	Continues despite capital pressure; resilient under stress.
Achievement	High (satisficing risk)	Outcome-focused; risks quality at 80–85% effort.
Alignment	Developing	Conflict over values with investors; leaning toward integrity-first.
Restraint	Emerging	Reactivity, numbing under stress; practicing pause and swaps.

5. Shadow Indicators (root ↔ antidote)

1. Root Fear → Financial collapse / loss of control.
   - Expression: Control Reflex → over-managing; performance drops when gripping too tightly.
   - Antidote: Grounding, breath pacing, trust 80% plan + refine later.

2. Root Shame → "I'm a failure if I need rest."
   - Expression: "Satisficer" Risk → sacrifices excellence, neglects recovery.
   - Antidote: Reframe rest as fuel; commit to one 100% deliverable/week.

3. Root Anger → frustration at disengaged others.
   - Expression: Lone Rescuer → over-functioning, resentment.
   - Antidote: Boundaries + clear contracts; step back after offering choice.

4. Root Avoidance → numbing with food, alcohol, audiobooks.
   - Expression: Quick Relief → skipped routines, withdrawal.
   - Antidote: 5-second swap (tea/water + movement); recommit to AM practice.

Somatic Signature Panel

- Early warnings: rushed tempo, irritability, sleep disruption.
- Green lights: play with kids, sketching, humor, steady morning routine.
- Reset Protocols: breath pacing, body scan, morning hydration + movement.

6. Awareness Quotient Summary

Anonymous shows a strong S6 center with emerging S7 altitude—driven, resilient, and learning to widen the frame beyond outcomes alone. His greatest lever is his awareness that stress loops (capital anxiety, disrupted sleep, food or withdrawal patterns) can narrow his presence and performance. When he steadies his mornings, grounds somatically, and shares ownership rather than carrying it all, his leadership feels both more effective and more sustainable. His shadows—fear of collapse, shame about needing rest, and frustration at others' disengagement—soften when he trusts rhythm, dialogue, and right-hemisphere resets like humor, creativity, and play.

HEXACO Trait tendencies (qualitative, narrative inference):

- Honesty-Humility: Moderate-High — fairness ethic, avoids exploitative advantage.
- Emotionality: High under stress — anxiety, sleep issues.
- eXtraversion: Moderate — leads capably, variable energy.
- Agreeableness: Moderate — empathic when resourced; impatient under load.
- Conscientiousness: High at work, lower in health habits.
- Openness: Moderate-High — creativity and willingness to learn.

7. Personalized 90-Day Practice Plan

Theme: Grip less, ground more. Make mornings sacred; authorize others; finish one thing to excellence each week.

A. Weekly cadence (anchors)

- 4 protected morning starts
- 2 delegations/week
- 1 relationship deposit
- 1 creative sprint.

B. Daily minimums (the floor)

- 5 min breath
- 10 min movement
- 1 glass water before alcohol
- 3 nights alcohol-free.

C. Five SkillfullyAware Practices

- Focus on the Positive → Name one win before work.
- Prime Ahead → Set a one-sentence purpose for the next meeting.
- Name it to Tame it → Label the feeling; take three breaths.
- Shift / Open / Stay → When triggered: shift attention, open awareness, stay 90 seconds.
- Zooming → Daily/Weekly review: What worked? What to iterate next week?

D. If-Then Protocols

- If drink → swap
- If control reflex → soft hands + exhale
- If teammate stalls → offer options

E. Agreements & Boundaries

- AMs are sacred
- Say no to misaligned work
- No rescuing teams

F. Milestones (by Day 90)

- ≥35 protected mornings with AM practice completed.
- ≥20 nights in the final 30 days with ≥7 hours of sleep (self-logged)
- ≥12 documented emotional regulation reps (naming + pause in conflict).
- ≥10 creative sessions (sketching, storytelling, or design).
- One excellence deliverable/week in business execution (to counter satisficing risk)

G. Reflection prompts (weekly)

- Where did I notice stress pulling me into withdrawal or numbing—and what did I choose instead?
- What boundaries or direct asks did I make this week that kept me present and honest?
- How did I include my family in my attention and presence despite business pressure?
- What creative act lifted my energy—and how can I repeat it?
- Where did I finish to excellence rather than stopping at “good enough”?

Therapist Handoff Page

Client: Anonymous 2

Stage: S6 Results Driver with emerging S7 Perspective Connector capacities. Falls back to S5 Skilled Specialist control/avoidance loops under load.

Hemispheric Tilt: Left-tilted integrator. Strength in analytical drive, execution, and business vigilance. Right-hemisphere resets (creative play with kids, humor, relational presence) restore balance and prevent over-narrowing. Integration work should support whole-brain regulation rather than over-reliance on control.

Somatic Profile:

- Stress signs: disrupted sleep, stress-eating, withdrawal, irritability, vindictive impulses, audiobooks/food as numbing.
- Green lights: playful creativity with children, sketching, humor, steady morning practice.
- Reset levers: evening wind-down with journaling/breath, morning hydration + movement, mid-day walk + breath pacing, humor or creative reset.

Strengths:

- High drive and perseverance under prolonged capital stress.
- Fairness orientation: seeks win-win and resists exploitative advantage.
- Leadership presence: capable of direct influence when resourced.
- Therapy insight into childlike reactivity; reflective capacity emerging.
- Creative engagement with family; humor and storytelling relieve tension.

Risks:

- Over-control in high-stakes contexts; performance worsens with micromanaging.
- Reliance on food/alcohol/audiobooks as quick relief under pressure.
- Tendency to withdraw and hurt close relationships when overwhelmed.
- Satisficing at 80–85% effort; conceals quality debt in complex work.
- Rescuing others or over-functioning; frustration when others don’t engage.

Clinical Interventions:

- Somatic regulation practices (breath pacing, grounding, movement).
- Scaffold morning routines as anchor habits; track adherence.
- Boundary and authorization coaching: step back, resist rescue reflex.
- “Finish to Excellence” reps: choose one deliverable per week to complete at 100%.
- Substitution protocols for numbing: 5-second swap (water/movement) in place of quick-relief reflex.

Appendix: SAAQ Ten-Stage Awareness Model (S1–S10)

S1. Impulsive Self
Acts from immediate impulses and desires; regulation is minimal. Conflict often resolved through force or avoidance. Practice: Pause and breathe before acting; notice consequences.

S2. Boundary-Tester
Pushes limits, tests authority, and experiments with control. Rules seen as external impositions. Practice: Create clear agreements with consistent consequences.

S3. Tribal Belonger
Identity fused with group, family, tribe, or ideology. Belonging provides stability but can constrain individuality. Practice: Differentiate kindly; recognize self as distinct while maintaining connection.

S4. Loyal Contributor
Oriented around duty, structure, and fulfilling socially defined roles. Seeks order, predictability, and compliance with norms. Practice: Treat errors as data, not moral failings; cultivate flexibility.

S5. Skilled Specialist
Focused on precision, expertise, and mastery of systems. Can become rigid, perfectionistic, or overly analytical. Practice: Share tools generously; invite others' perspectives; loosen grip on control.

S6. Results Driver
Results-oriented, pragmatic, and strategic. Capable of prioritizing, scaling, and leading toward measurable goals. Risk of over-drive and burnout. Practice: Balance productivity with renewal; build empathy into execution.

S7. Perspective Connector
Holds multiple perspectives, values relationships, empathy, and dialogue. Prioritizes win-win solutions and ethical action. Practice: Strengthen boundaries while staying open; practice dialogue over debate.

S8. Systems Architect
Designs systems from core values; integrates multiple perspectives into coherent strategy. Self-authored identity; vision-driven leadership. Practice: Distribute authority; embed values into organizational design.

S9. Integrative Seer
Sees both self and systems as constructed; able to hold paradox and ambiguity without collapse. Operates with humility and meta-awareness. Practice: Consciously choose constraints; cultivate presence over resolution.

S10. Meta-Builder
Synthesizes paradigms into new, generative wholes. Works at ecosystem level, co-creating transformative structures. Operates from transpersonal perspective.
Practice: Convene across systems; co-create shared futures; anchor in service.
